

Thank you for choosing BJU Press Distance Learning.

Please take a moment to read these start-up tips from other Distance Learning users.

Unpacking your boxes

- Find the packing slip that is included with your order.
- As you unpack each box, check its contents against the packing slip to make sure that you received all the items you ordered.
- An item number on the packing slip with the word “complete” in the description is not an item included in your box. This is just a heading for items listed below it.
- Be sure to let BJU Press know within 10 business days of any damages or discrepancies in your order.

Organizing your Materials

- Separate your materials into groups by subject and grade level.
- If you’ve received materials but aren’t sure which subject they go with, set them aside briefly. Check your catalog for a complete list of items included with each course.
- The catalog is also available (in pdf) online: www.bjupresshomeschool.com.

Before Beginning the Course

Orientation Lessons

Many teachers provide orientation lessons that include important information and should be viewed before starting the class. Don’t skip this part! You may want to have a notebook to take notes. Watching the orientation lesson really does help you understand how the teacher has laid out the course. Be sure to have all the resources for the course available as you watch the lesson.

The Teacher’s Edition

The first several pages will give you tips and strategies for the course. Charts show you how all the materials for that subject work together. Some Teacher’s Editions contain a support materials CD (Teacher’s Toolkit CD) found in the back of the book. You should become familiar with the resources available on this CD as the teacher may assign work to be completed from it.

Additional Resources for DVD or HDD Options

Teacher Support Material (TSM) CD: Each course includes a TSM CD. It is the first CD in the DVD module. For HDD, the TSM is one CD that covers all courses and should be included in the box with your hard drive. This CD includes resources produced by the Distance Learning teacher and is essential to the course. The teacher may refer to this information as the printed Mom’s Minutes, Teacher’s Tips, or Facilitator’s Packets.

Welcome to your BJU Press Lesson Plan Guide

It lays out your daily schedule for each subject in an easy to follow format. Here are a few quick pointers to help you get the most from it.

This guide assumes a 180-day school year. You can, of course, adjust the plans to fit your schedule and your state requirements. Some days do not have lessons scheduled for all classes in order to take into account test days and any activities you have planned beyond the video lessons.

The number next to the subject title each day is the video lesson number for that day. The following chart will help explain the abbreviations used in all guides:
