

Introduce Grammar with Purpose

Give your elementary students a purpose for learning grammar by showing them how to become clear communicators through grammar. Grammar and writing chapters will alternate to give students opportunities to learn and practice grammatical concepts and to see them applied in examples of good writing. Additionally, biblical worldview shaping elements will help students to understand how good communication pleases God and can help spread the gospel.

How We Teach It

Chapter Openers

Each chapter opens with a paragraph and artwork that connects the chapter content with a biblical worldview shaping principle. The teacher edition offers a guide for using and applying the opener in a lesson.

Modeling

Each chapter provides opportunities for teacher modeling. Grammar chapters provides opportunities for teachers to model daily objectives, and writing chapters include opportunities to model each writing genre with step-by-step instructions for guiding students through the model to prepare students for independent writing.

Writing Process

Each writing chapter follows the five steps in the writing process: Plan, Draft, Revise, Proofread, and Publish. As they learn the writing process, students will also learn age-appropriate writing traits.

Practice

Additional practice pages in grammar chapters and Write It Right! pages in writing chapters provide many opportunities for practice to improve retention.
